SOURCE

1. On 29 November 1951, Garz airfield was occupied by aircraft. Source could not approach the field because it was heavily guarded by border police and Soviet Army patrols.

2. According to a local resident, the previously observed jet fighters were no longer seen over Garz after early November. The informant also said that single-engine and twin-engine planes were apparently stationed at the field and that practice firing was occasionally conducted at sleeve targets which were towed by aircraft over the sea. *

Comment. Garz airfield is probably occupied by a unit of the Soviet naval air force. The jet aircraft mentioned may be assigned to the fighter regiment which, in mid-November, was transferred from Peenemuende to Tschnitz.
